

General Manager (M/F/DIV)

Hanselmann & Compagnie Ltd (www.hcie-consulting.co.uk) is a medium-sized management consulting company that has its registered office in Leamington Spa – our headquarter is located in Stuttgart /Germany.

For well-known customers especially from the automotive manufacturer / -supplier industry, the industrial goods sector and mechanical engineering we design sustainable solutions and accompany in the operative implementation.

In doing so, we consistently focus on value enhancement and always think and act entrepreneurially to create a sustainable added value.

To build up the UK location and lead a consulting team we are looking for a highly motivated, empathic and entrepreneurial-minded General Manager (m/f/div)

CHALLENGING TASKS THAT MOVE YOU FORWARD:

- You take responsibility for the planning and implementation of challenging consulting projects in the areas of strategy, organisational development, product management, R&D and operations
- Together with our customers, you develop innovative solutions and business models along the entire value chain, identify potential for improvement and ensure a value-added oriented and sustainable implementation
- You will develop & support key account customers by being the first point of contact, strengthening customer relationships and identifying and developing potential
- You are able to identify the needs and requirements of the customer and translate them into conceptual solutions and operational measures
- You are committed to the further development and growth of the company
- You lead a project team and ensure the content and methodological competence of the team members

YOUR PROFILE TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE WITH US:

- Successfully completed, technically-oriented course of study with a focus on industrial engineering, mechanical engineering or a comparable orientation
- Several years in top management consulting or/and professional experience in the area of strategy development
- Leadership experience and an empathic team leadership is a matter of course for you
- Demonstrable expertise in the following industries: automotive manufacturer or supplier, mechanical engineering or industrial goods sector
- You convey competence through your appearance, confidence and master even difficult situations with aplomb
- You are dedicated, responsible and goal-orientated
- Hands-on mentality and problem-solving attitude
- Mother tongue or very good knowledge of English as well as organizational and communication skills

OUR OFFER TO TAKE OFF TOGETHER WITH YOU:

We offer you permanent employment with interesting projects and prospects in various industries and companies.

Become part of the team that will build Hanselmann & Compagnie UK. You will have the opportunity to set up your own team and help drive the company's growth by developing and implementing your strategies.

If we have aroused your interest and you want to take off together with us, we are looking forward to your application.

Our partner HR consulting company HUMANEXX is looking forward to assist you in case of questions. Therefore please write to jobs@humanexx.de.

If you think you have got what it takes to join our team then please apply via jobs@humanexx.de